THE POLICY STATEMENT ON RESPONSIBLE SOURCING OF MINERALS

Semiconductor Manufacturing International Corporation (SMIC) is aware that trade in coltan (for tantalum), cassiterite (for tin), wolframite (for tungsten), and gold (collectively “Conflict Minerals”) originating from conflict areas in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and its adjoining nations (collectively “DRC”), and other minerals (such as cobalt, mica, etc.) may support serious human rights abuses.

As a concerned corporate citizen and international listed company, it is our policy to use only "DRC Conflict-Free" minerals as defined by applicable laws and regulations. To demonstrate compliance with this policy, we have developed and implemented Conflict Minerals procedures that conform to the OECD due diligence guidance. These procedures require that our suppliers undertake reasonable due diligence to ensure that their products do not contain Conflict Minerals that originate from conflict regions in the DRC and other Conflict-Affected and High-Risk Areas, and provide written evidence of at least the following:

1. To the extent practicable, documentation on the parties involved in the supply chain from extraction of the minerals to delivery of the material containing such minerals to SMIC;
2. Documentation on responsible sourcing of minerals, such as a completed Conflict Minerals Report Template (CMRT), Cobalt Reporting Template (CRT), Mica Reporting Template (MRT) and other templates created by the Responsible Minerals Initiative (RMI);
3. A copy of our suppliers' policy statement on responsible sourcing of minerals, as provided to their customers; and
4. Other available documentation required by SMIC to ensure that the minerals contained in materials are including but not limited to "DRC Conflict-Free", if any.

SMIC will work with our relevant suppliers to verify on at least an annual basis: (1) their supply chain due diligence; and (2) the accuracy of all documentation they provide to SMIC. If at any point SMIC cannot determine that the minerals provided to us are including but not limited to "DRC Conflict-Free," we shall promptly suspend engagement with the relevant supplier until the risk has been appropriately mitigated.

As a responsible company concerned with environmentally sound business practices, SMIC seeks suppliers who share our commitment.
